
KAHLIL GIBRAN DEAD; NOTED SYRIAN POET

Wrote in Arabic and English—
Native of Palestine, He Had Lived Here for 20 Years.

Kahlil Gibran, the Syrian poet and author of "Jesus the Man of Nazareth," died at 11 o'clock last night at St. Vincent's Hospital, to which he had been taken earlier in the day when he became unconscious as the result of an illness from which he had suffered for several months. Mr. Gibran had been in this country for more than twenty years and had lived at 51 West Tenth Street.

—He was born in Mount Lebanon, Palestine, and gained a widespread reputation through his Arabic poetry and the writing of several books in English. His manuscripts were exhibited in 1928 at Poetry House, at 12 East Tenth Street.

Mr. Gibran became ill more than four months ago; his ailment was diagnosed as cancer of the liver. Early yesterday morning he became unconscious and was rushed to St. Vincent's Hospital in an ambulance. He did not regain consciousness and died with a sister, Marianna, who lives in Boston, at his bedside.

The New York Times

Published: April 11, 1931

Copyright © The New York Times